

The Power of Persuasion: Writing for Social Change

Tuesday, June 30, 2020
7:00 P.M. – 8:30 P.M.

Online Event

Tickets are $35.00 and available on Eventbrite

We've all had our perspective permanently altered by a stellar piece of writing, whether it was a live speech, an op-ed, a perfectly crafted piece of longform reporting, or any other genre.

If you want to be the person causing that change, this virtual workshop led by author and activist Jaclyn Friedman is for you!

Whatever cause is dearest to your heart, you'll learn how to avoid common pitfalls in "social justice" writing, instead growing your ability to use language to inspire, persuade and convince others to leave the world a little better than they found it.

Tickets are nonrefundable. A Zoom link will be sent to attendees the morning of the event.

Registration closes on June 30, 2020 at 6:30 P.M.

About Jaclyn Friedman

Jaclyn Friedman is a writer, educator and activist, and creator of four books "Yes Means Yes: Visions of Female Sexual Power and a World Without Rape" (one of Publishers' Weekly's Top 100 Books of 2009), "What You Really Really Want: The Smart Girl's Shame-Free Guide to Sex & Safety," "Unscrewed: Women, Sex, Power and How to Stop Letting the System Screw Us All," and her latest, "Believe Me: How Trusting Women Can Change the World." Her podcast, also called Unscrewed, is paving new paths to sexual liberation, and was named one of the Best Sex Podcasts by both Marie Claire and Esquire.

Friedman's work has popularized the "yes means yes" standard of sexual consent. She is a popular speaker on campuses and at conferences across the U.S. and beyond. Friedman has been a guest on the Today Show, Nightline, PBS News Hour, Call Your Girlfriend, and numerous other audio and TV shows, and her commentary has appeared in outlets including The New York Times, Vox, Refinery 29, The Washington Post, Glamour and The Guardian.
